Dear Defenders of Life:

Despite the fact that many Long Islanders were not able to attend the March for Life as planned, due to the unprecedented snow storm, tens of thousands still attended the March, according to March for Life organizers. "We were extremely pleased with what appeared to be tens of thousands of Americans who came together to celebrate life today despite the weather conditions," said Jeanne Mancini, President of the March for Life Education and Defense Fund. Fortunately, students from Long Island Catholic High Schools were able to experience the events in Wash. D.C. the night before the March. Amanda Miller, a junior at St. John the Baptist, said "Having the opportunity to stand up for life is something I believe everyone should experience. This year I got to attend the annual youth rally for life before the actual March took place. It felt really special to stand among so many others who share the value that believes all life is sacred and worth living. What made it such an amazing experience was that everyone was coming together for such a positive cause. I hope that in the near future all of our efforts and prayers will make a difference to the lives of the unborn."
